WHILE THE WEATHER IS FINE!

ORDER OF THE MAJOR GENERAL IN RELATION TO THE DEATH OF COL. BAKER.—General McClellan has issued the following general order touching the death of Colonel Baker:

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY POTOMAC,
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22, 1861.

General Orders, No. 52.]

The Major General Commanding, with sincere sorrow announces the death of Colonel Edward D. Baker, who fell gloriously in battle on the evening of Monday, the 21st October, 1861, near Leesburg, Virginia. The gallant and had many titles to honor. At the time of his death he was a member of the United States Senate for Oregon, and it is no injustice to any survivor to say that one of the most eloquent voices in that illustrious body has been silenced by his fall. As a patriot, zealous for the honor and interests of his adopted country, he has been distinguished in two years, and has now sealed with his blood his devotion to the national flag. Cut off in the fullness of his powers as a statesman, and in the course of a brilliant career as a soldier, while the country mourns his loss his brothers in arms will envy while they lament his fate. He died as a soldier would wish to die, amid the shock of battle, by voice and example animating his men to brave deeds.

The remains of the deceased will be interred in this city with the honors due to his rank, and the funeral arrangements will be ordered by Brigadier General Silas Casey. As an appropriate mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, the usual badge of military mourning will be worn for the period of thirty days by the officers of the brigade lately under his command. By command of Major General McCLELLAN,

L. WILLIAMS, Assistant Adjutant General.

VALUABLE HINTS TO UNMARRIED LADIES.—The following items of advice to ladies remaining in a state of single blessedness are extracted from the manuscripts of an old dowager:

If you have blue eyes, languish.

If black eyes, affect spirit.

If you have pretty feet, wear short petticoats.

If you are the least doubtful as to that point, wear them long.

If you have good teeth don't forget to laugh now and then.

If you have bad ones you must only simper.

While you are young, sit with your face to the light.

When you are a little advanced, sit with your back to the window.

If you have a bad voice, always speak in a low tone.

If it is acknowledged that you have a fine voice, never speak in a high tone.

If you dance well, dance seldom.

If you dance ill, never dance at all.

If you sing well, make no puerile excuses.

If you sing indifferent, hesitate not a moment when you are asked, for few persons are competent judges of singing, but every one is sensible of the desire to please.

If in conversation you think a person wrong, rather hint a difference of opinion than offer a contradiction.

It is always in your power to make a friend by smiles; what folly to make enemies by frowns.

When you have an opportunity to praise, do it with all your heart.

When you are forced to blame, do it with reluctance.

If you are envious of an other woman, never show it but by allowing her every good quality and perfection except those which she really possesses.

If you wish to let the world know you are in love with any particular man, treat him with formality, and every one else with cordial freedom.

If you are disposed to be pettish or insolent, it is better to exercise your ill humor on your dog or cat or your servant, than on your friend.

Secretary Cameron, during his late visit to the West, on landing at Tipton, saw some four or five soldiers standing on the platform of the railroad depot. Stepping up, he said to one of them: "Do you belong to Vandeveer's regiment?"

"Yes, sir."

"Are they all as good looking a set of fellows as you are?" the Secretary asked.

The soldier thus addressed answered, in a very dry and humorous way: "We are the finest looking of the whole set, but I guess anybody could look good as well as we could."

With the stars of a Union unbroken and true
Arise and defend it, ye sons of '76—Unite

MONDAY MORNING, NOV 25, 1861

Thanksgiving.

We learn that notices have been given in the churches of this city, that Thursday next, the 28th instant, will be set apart as a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer. We are glad that this is so and we hope the day will be kept in a manner, that will be pleasant and profitable to all our people.

Religious services will, we suppose, take place in the churches, of which due notice will be given, and that, in the afternoon of that day, families will be collected together,—the estranged, if any there are, with them,—to renew their loves, their affections,—which will make all happier and better.

We suggest to those who have never been in the habit of observing this day to do so at this time, and we are sure they will afterwards have respect for the time-honored institution, Thanksgiving,—which one year ago was observed in almost every State of this Union. How many persons in Oregon, while enjoying the day on these Western shores, will remember the pleasing, happy, Thanksgiving scenes of their early homes—the Thanksgiving tables around which were gathered loving families,—some of the members of which are scattered in remote countries, probably never to come together again. Blessings be upon those whom we have left behind.

We hope the time is near!

Senator ANDY JOHNSON in a speech lately said—

"But I tell you that if the sullen, smothered union feeling of the South has receded it is like the smothered fires of Vesuvius, which only fail to gather more heat and more fluent, that when the time comes they may burst forth with the more destructive fury. When the time comes in which the smothered sentiments of the Southern Union men shall burst forth, they will visit destruction upon those who have exiled them from their homes and devastated their property."

A few more successes on the part of the Federal army, and we shall realize the truth of the patriotic Senator's predictions.

The Boston Post, a Democratic paper, says:

"Dark as are the clouds over our country," a private letter of Joseph Hoxt of Saturday reads, 'and long and anxiously as we have watched for the light to penetrate them, my faith in the ultimate triumph of the Government remains unshaken. I did not believe that our beneficent and glorious institutions would survive the atrocious treason by which they are now so remorselessly assailed. I would pray for the mountains to fall on me and for the grave to open at my feet. Remorseless indeed is Secession, for it wars on what blesses and adorns society. It not only tramples on the Flag but blots out the triumphs of civilization.

Let the young men of the country ponder on these facts of this awful hour. It is a question between anarchy on the one side and Government on the other; and it presents the noblest field of action ever opened up to the efforts of man.

The Statesman well says: "This rebellion will, perhaps, wind up with a war with a foreign foe. In that event those who sympathize with traitors now, will be as ready to take up the cause of a foreign enemy then and it behooves the Pacific States to be prepared as well as they can for whatever may transpire."

GREAT CONFISCATION.—"Superior City, an important point on Lake Superior, pointed out by nature for an important city, is owned by Southerners distinguished politicians. The sight of the city embraces a township. It is to be confiscated by Government. We hope South Carolina will next be confiscated to the same purpose."

Gwin had received the appointment of Minister to Russia, from Jeff Davis, and Brent was to be his Secretary. Both are on parole at New York—and both will escape if they can get a chance.

A Characteristic Letter.

"NEAR THE MOUTH OF THE COLUMBIA,
Nov. 10, 1851.

Dear Sir—We shall go over the bar in no hour or less. Have but a moment to write. Your plan to save the payment for work was a capital one. The read-ice you engage to

I tell you what to say in reply to any slur the Oregonian larges that I am [illegible] the government—that I have declared [illegible] have no government—that I want the Government to tell Confederated States to be plagued over us—that I drink the health of Beauregard—that I duel re the Southern right—and that my property is for sale at half price so that I can go and help the [illegible] her—don't deny a single charge, but insist long and loud that I am acting on the Union. Keep that up. If you [illegible] deny the statements they have provided. You should give your attention to matters not connected with politics as much as you can,—not forgetting to cull extracts from other papers and insert communications all against the war and the government and when you are hard pressed for doing so, say, as usual, that you are no responsible for extracts or communications. In case you are crowded too much, say you would answer black abolition organs, or some thing equally expressive.

You are aware that great events may be expected in a few days, and you as well as myself must be ready for them. Let know my readiness to change positions and you should be ready to follow. My [illegible] is to try all things and hold fast to those which pay best. It may be necessary when I get east and see matters in a new light, to quit the palmetto and shout for the stars and stripes. My friends will bear witness that this will not be a more sudden change than I have made before. And if you hear me talk as loud for the government and the Union as I have against them be not at all surprised.

Keep watchful. Don't make any more prayers for breaking up the government,—and when you are asked if you want the government sustained, say you do, (nothing you have never said yet,) and explain the matter to suit our friends. I have the utmost confidence in you. Keep an eye on your "tile leader" as you have done the honor to call me. Shall write often.

Now Benjamin Stark never wrote this letter to his man Friday. Still it is a characteristic letter—and contains what we suppose are Stark's orders to his man Friday.

Port Royal.

A few years ago there was an effort in view of the great advantages of Port Royal for building a city on its borders, to draw the attention of capitalists to the enterprise. But northern and eastern capitalists chose not to make investments there—the safety of which would depend upon the honesty of Southern politicians. At the time in question De Bow's Review, published in the South, intensely Southern in its views, had an article on the subject, which will be read just at this time with great interest. De Bow is a South Carolinian he said:

Of Port Royal as an area of sea and land it is beautiful and healthy as could be desired. 500 miles nearer the mouth of the Mississippi than New York, and reached from Europe at all seasons of the year by a most desirable route. When the whole North is [illegible] of ice and snow every step of the South [illegible] comes more temperate and open while the internal commerce founded on diverse productions will give employment to a dense population. The bay of Port Royal is nearly if not quite equal to that of New York, and there are at least five sites on all the [illegible] on its shores, while by way of [illegible] nects with the everglades of Florida and the rice fields of the Waccamaw and all the [illegible] tributaries as far back as the falls of the rivers.

As it preserved by Providence for some great purpose, this noble bay has been kept out of sight entirely and is now open to those who will go and possess it for commercial purposes. It is the natural outlet of a large extent of country already provided with railroads, and wants but population and [illegible] to make it a powerful adjunct [illegible]

It is the military key of the Union.

And, again, says the Review in the same article:

Between Savannah and Charleston lies the great bay of Port Royal having all the natural advantages and the health desirable to the site of a great commercial city. In point of such, it is destined to draw to itself the enterprise and capital of the [illegible] and who desire to give their children [illegible] mercial and educational advantages of a high order, where they are likely to find openings for business as they grow up.

Port Royal Island is some five miles wide, by about ten long. On one side lies Beaufort river, navigable as far as the town of Beaufort to vessels as large as any that can reach Charleston. On the other is Broad river, two miles wide, land locked and deep enough to float the largest steam frigates. Between the two, Battery river is interposed, forming a [illegible]

CORONER'S COURT.—The respective counsel in the Patterson case up upon the evidence of Saturday this morning then gave their arguments to the Court and Jury, after which the Jury retired for a short time when they returned with a verdict of no guilty

THEATRICAL.—Dean's Sons Minstrels perform this evening at the Old House on Saturday night. They leave to-day for Vancouver and the Dalles, when our neighbors will have a chance to amuse themselves for a few evenings.

TO SAIL.—The steamer Cortes will sail for San Francisco to-morrow.

LUNATIC.—An unfortunate man has been wandering our streets, for several days, deprived of reason He is said to hail from Washington county It is alike unjust and inhuman in our neighbors in sending their unfortunate citizens to other States or counties to be provided for

STRICTLY TO-DAY.—The trial of Ed Simonds, indicted for the crime of manslaughter in killing Lewis Byrnes, is set for to-day

Gen. Tilton, of Olympia, in the Overland this morning challenges Murphy, of the Standard, to fight a duel. Murphy won't fight, because Tilton has many kill the General, which is all, or get killed himself, which is worse. The General threatens to use the horse-whip but this is a game that two can play at

The Vancouver Chronicle says that some of the members of the Territorial Legislature will go no further than Vancouver to perform their legislative duties, the coming Winter we shall see.

The overland stages failed to make connection on Saturday night

Mr. Barnhart, Indian Agent, is assigned to the Grande Ronde Reservation

A subscriber at Leland, Oregon, writes us from another brother that came to Oregon with him in '51. He was in the stove and tin ware business in Oregon City and Portland. In the spring of '57, he went back to Wisconsin and went into the banking business there, investing most of his capital in Southern stocks. Stocks went down and he went up for about $50,000. He then went a soldiering, as Captain of the Harrison Guards—served his three months, returned—and he is off again as Adjutant of a regiment. So you see I am slightly interested in this war."

The gentleman's name is O B Twogood]

Late accounts from New Mexico say that all is quiet there. The people feel great indignation at the treacherous surrender of the U S forts in Arizona to the rebels

ROYAL INVESTMENTS IN THE LOAN.—It is reported what is believed to be very good authority that the Prince de Joinville has not only placed his two sons in the army of the Union, but invested five millions of francs ($5,000,000) in the 7 3 10 Treasury notes of the United States Government. It is well known that the Orleans family did not leave the throne of France poor, and the Prince has some fat pickings out of the Brazilian war connection—so that this investment is not impossible. Louis Napoleon is reported to be making an investment of this amount—twenty-five millions of francs ($5,000,000.)

ARRIVAL FROM THE SOUTH.—Mr. William Springer, a well-known builder of this city, returned from Charlotte, North Carolina, on Monday night, after an absence of several months, a portion of which time he was a prisoner at Charlotte Mr Springer says South before the secession of North Carolina to build a house for ex Governor Morehead, of that State.

The Sacramento Union says 'To seal Charleston harbor would as effectually kill that city as if it were to perish by fire In fact it would be worse than the destruction of the city by fire, for it would die a lingering death, without hope of resuscitation A similar doom would overtake Savannah were the channel at the mouth of Savannah river completely obstructed by sunken ships loaded with stone or sand."

The Rebels Anticipating a Long War.

The Richmond Whig says: All the indications point to a long war. At one time we had hoped that the dash—the elan of our volunteers unrestrained, but simply guided by able generals—would have planted our banners, before frost, in the heart of the enemy's country, and conquered an honorable peace. But a different policy has obtained. We of the South, who were to attack, have adopted a system of defense, and, so far, have uniformly awaited the advance of the foe. This may be the safer policy; but we have never been able to appreciate it. Our conviction is that a victorious advance into the enemy's country is the only road to a lasting and honorable peace. We must fight, and we must conquer before we can make a treaty. If we cannot do this, we must submit to the fate of the weaker party. The enemy have dominion of the sea; he can assail us at almost innumerable points; he can plunder our coasts and penetrate our rivers. He is supreme in the Chesapeake Bay; he commands the Potomac; he has possession of Maryland, of Northwestern Virginia, and is contending for Missouri and Kentucky. While he threatens our whole coast, he may assail us at any point of our extended frontier. This whole situation must be altered before we can have peace on any terms compatible with honor and safety.

We have never heard of any plan suggested for effecting this desirable alteration short of carrying the war into the enemy's country. While we stand on the defensive, and the enemy is entrenched on this side of the Potomac, it is impossible for us to destroy his supremacy at sea, or prevent his predatory incursions on our coast. We are subjected to all the disadvantages of a defensive war of indefinite duration or of a peace dictated by the enemy. The possibility of our success is not within the range of accident. To prevent our subjugation or extermination is all we can hope for. We have no skill in strategy, and know nothing of the means at the command of our generals; but if this is all that is left to us we had as well be looking out for terms of submission, and the sooner the better. An endless war which affords no opportunity for either victory or revenge is a bottomless undertaking.

The Southern people who have offered themselves and their all for the prosecution of this war, and who have reposed implicit confidence in the men entrusted with its conduct, have looked for something better. It is not to be disguised that a sense of uneasiness and distrust is gradually supplanting that generous confidence. A suspicion is gaining ground, that all the advantages of our position have not been profited by, as they might have been; that the war has not been prosecuted with that vigor and energy demanded by the emergency. We hear mutterings and complaints, apart from those connected with the Quartermaster, Commissary, and Medical Departments, growing out of the appointment of so many civilians to high commands. Many of these appointments have filled the country with apprehensions of some great disaster.

A young lady—a sensible girl—gives the following catalogue of different kinds of love: "The sweetest—a mother's love; the longest—a brother's love; the strongest—a woman's love; the dearest—a man's love; and the sweetest, longest, strongest, and dearest love—a love of a bonnet."

"Patronize Home Industry."

Remarkable Instance of Medical Ba...

Below we publish the certificates of three of the most prominent citizens of Portland, who, having received from the hands of disease, who, having received their former health and unsullied by gratitude, make known their cases and remedial agent, and their statements authenticated by a Notary Public. The demands of humanity imperiously command their publicity, and we commend their perusal to the attention of all afflicted:

Certificate—The undersigned, desirous of relieving those who may be unfortunate enough to be afflicted, where a permanent relief of their sufferings may be obtained, feels it his duty to thus publicly express his sincere gratitude to Dr. L. J. Czapkay, for the speedy recovery of his health. Borne down by the distressing symptoms incident to the vicious practices of youthful indiscretion in youth; depressed in body and mind unable to perform even the most trifling duty imposed upon him in the daily avocations of life, I sought the advice of many physicians, who at first regarded my disease as of little importance—but, alas! after a few weeks, and in some instances, months, of their treatment, I found to my unutterable horror that instead of relief, my symptoms were more alarming in their torture; and being told by one that my disease being principally confined to the kidneys, it would be of little consequence. I despaired of ever regaining my health, strength, and energy; and as a last resort, with but a faint hope, called upon Dr. Czapkay, who, after examining my case, prescribed some medicine which gave instantly relief. One of the dull pain and weakness in my head. Encouraged by the result, I resolved to place myself immediately under his care, and by a strict adherence to his directions and advice, my head became clear and my ideas collected, the constant pain in my back and kidneys, the weakness of my limbs, the nervous reaction of my whole body on the slightest alarm or excitement, the dark and evil forebodings, the self-distrust and want of confidence in others, the incapability to study, and want of energy, the frightful, exciting, and at times pleasurable dreams at night, followed by involuntary discharges, have entirely ceased; and in fact, in two months after having placed myself under the doctor, I felt myself inspired by a new life—a life of which but a short time ago I contemplated to end by my own hand. With the view to guard the unfortunate from falling into the snares of incompetent quacks, I deem it my duty to offer this testimony to the merit and skill of Dr. Czapkay, and recommend him to all who may stand in need of medical advice, being assured by my own experience that no one under his care a radical and permanent cure will be wanting.

MARYSVILLE, June 30, 1856.

DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, San Francisco—Sir: I have used the last of your medicine, and do not think I shall require more, as I feel very well, except that I have not yet got my strength yet, but soon will with the appetite I have. It is just three weeks, you may recollect, since I called at your institute, with my constitution, as I then thought, ruined entirely, and never thought you would be able to cure me perfectly. But thought you might be able to relieve me, and to ease the pain in my back and head, and strengthen my nerves, so that I would not get excited and trouble me in anything. Now that you know what I expected you will judge of my satisfaction at my complete recovery from all symptoms, and the removal of those sores and blotches on my skin, and the ulcers from my throat, and the collection of those emissions, which you said were principally the cause of my sickness. I can hardly tell you which is the greatest, my joy or my surprise, for except not having got my strength, I feel as well as any man can feel.

Enclosed I send you twenty dollars over your charges—I think myself cheaply cured. If you think anybody can be benefited, you may put this letter in the newspaper. I believe me gratefully yours. THOMAS HAYDEN.

Thankfulness is the incentive to gratitude.

CERTIFICATE.—Prompted by an honest desire to say what I wish to lay before the public a case which deserves recommendation, not only as an act of scientific skill, but also of humanity also. About two years ago, I suddenly and from causes unknown to me, was seized with a fit of sickness, which, owing to my inability to meet the expenses consequent upon a thorough medical treatment, and the disagreement which I met with on attempting it, was such (I was then led to believe) as to defy the skill of any physician. I was frequently, while in pursuit of my business, thrown down to the ground without the slightest warning, and although insensible to the agonies, I yet deeply felt the miseries of my life, and soon learned to look upon them as would render assistance or shelter me from the storms of the inclemencies who sought to prolong the existence of my unfortunate. While in this state, and having previous to my ... tasted the sweets of life, I once more was induced to ... seeking aid of a physician, and, by recommendation, ... upon Dr. L. J. Czapkay. I told him of my ... and of my inability to reward him for his services, ... of which, however, he at once undertook my case, and ... the blessing of God, I was once more restored to ... health. Unable to reward him for the boon which I ... I resign, and yet conscious of my indebtedness, I ... due to myself and all afflicted, to make the case ... order that those in need of medical advice may find a ... can in whom every confidence can be placed.
